PRICE THREE CENTS

WIRELESS FOR U. OF D.

Receiving Set Will be Established in Summer School

ITS BROADER PRACTICAL USES

Unusual importance attaches itself to the announcement by University of Delaware authorities that a wireless receiving set will be established in Wolf Hall for the Summer School and that an elementary course in radiotelephony will be established as a regular feature of the session. Educators believe that with the continued development of the radiophone will come its broader application to practical uses. Chief among these will be the broadcasting of lectures from the principal universities of the land. By means of the radiotelephone students in a hundred High Schools will be enabled to "listen in" on a history lecture by a competent authority speaking at the state university; teachers unable to make the journey to the great educational centers will be able to take advantage of the lectures offered.

Already, the University of Virginia and Tufts College are broadcasting the principal university lectures and concerts. It is only a question of time until the same thing will be done by many other educational institutions.

In addition to providing instruction in radiotelephony, the installation of the set will provide much novel entertainment. Seated in Wolf Hall those attending the Summer School will be able to enjoy concerts and lectures broadcasted from Pittsburgh, Schenectady, Springfield, Chicago, New York and Philadelphia.

Walter Dent Smith, who will be graduated from the University in June with the degree of Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering, has been engaged as a member of the staff of the Summer School to give the lectures and demonstrate the apparatus. Mr. Smith has been doing this work in radiotelephony.

Both the lecture course and the receiving set are being established through the generosity of the Service Citizens of Delaware. The apparatus will become the permanent property of the university.

VISITED DELAWARE COLONY

Five ladies of Odessa recently visited the Delaware Colony the home for Feeble-minded of Delaware, situated about five miles below Georgetown. We found 42 inmates, 18 girls and 24 boys, and learned that the waiting list reached nearly the thousand mark. Think of the work before us.

We are going to ask the good hearted people of New Castle County to stop and think for one minute.

How glad are you that you are not called to teach and attend these unfortunate and if you were called, how much pleasure and recreation would you want to change the monotony of the day? How many are thankful that this affliction of the mind has been spared them?

How far down in your pocket book does this thankfulness go? Does it go far enough for all the readers to send one dollar (or more) to the undersigned?

We are making this appeal through the paper hoping for a liberal response. If you could take time to go down to the colony and see for yourself you would want to give your all.

Our State is very liberal with the appropriation but this is not enough to give these people the needs, like every other home, it takes so much more than buildings, think of all the shoes and stockings to be bought, the furniture and the many things we cannot mention.

One girl was crocheting a rag rug to beautify the home she was doing her part, but would soon have to stop for the want of rags to crochet. Others were knitting scarfs and sweaters, all were busy at one thing or another.

Don't put it off until tomorrow but send your dollar today to Mrs. F. B. Watkins Odessa, Del., Chairman of New Castle Co. or Miss Blanche Lockwood Middletown Del. or Mrs. George Whitlock Odessa, Delaware.

Church attendance—The family pew is a thing for which we should pray. That it may come into being once again. We do not need rented pews for the family in a church with free pews the family can easily have their regular pew and always sit in it. It means being gracious to anyone who may happen to sit there too. Family worship at home seems to be a thing of the past also. It could come back with profit to all concerned.

To the loss of this acknowledgment is partially due to the falling off at attendance in God's House on Sundays.

Let every member of the Sunday School look forward to being present next Sunday. We want a hundred per cent attendance. Parents are urged to assist the Teachers in seeing that the children are sent to the Church School.

On Whitsunday, June 4th, the Rector will celebrate the 221st anniversary of his ordination to the Deaconate having been ordained in All Saint's Cathedral, Milwaukee, Wis., on that date. And on August 6th, this year the Rector and Mrs. Donaghy will celebrate their twentieth wedding anniversary.

LET US ALL BOOST OUR TOWN

It is gratifying, indeed, to find that since the first meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Middletown, the general public in our community has already caught the broad spirit underlying our project of making Middletown a bigger, better and more progressive town. Let us resolve to have a new modern School House, and good roads leading from all the towns around us as special inducements to bring the greater business to our town that it needs and must have.

Let us build more homes to increase our population and thus lessen our taxes, get an up-to-date fire apparatus that our town can be proud of and which will be able to save property in case of a very dangerous conflagration.

And last, but not least let us resolve to have the new Postoffice, which our town has so badly needed for a long time, and since the old one has been destroyed by fire, let us fight hard for a Federal P. O. Building fitted to handle the large and increasing business of our 2nd class P. O.

The many letters written our two Senators and Representative, have stirred them up to do their best to secure for us this Federal building.

We must all pull together forgetting party lines, a failure to do this has caused many like enterprises to fail in other towns. We have good churches, modern banks, up-to-date stores and well paved streets, a good light and water system, and will soon have a new modern Opera House. Thanks to the live ladies of the New Century Club for building a fine Club House which we are making good use of as a Community Centre. Then we hope soon to have a new P. O. on a par with our other improvements, and a credit to our whole community. But all these will only come by hard work, all pulling together.

A. FOGEL,
Member of Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTY FIELD MEET

Several thousand school children of New Castle County attended the County Field Meet, at Frazier Field, in Newark, yesterday, including several bus loads from the Middletown School.

Many of the schools displayed effective floats which told of the splendid health work accomplished in our schools. The first feature of the day's program was the health parade which marched through the streets of Newark to Frazier Field. After the parade the smaller children assembled on the field for the play festival, while the larger ones were weighed and examined as to their physical fitness for the athletic events.

The moving picture people were on hand taking reels showing the various activities of the day. Special features was the assembling of the children of the county who made good or perfect attendance for the year to be pictured as a group for the movies. Other events of the morning included the bronze and silver badge tests for the boys and girls dodgeball tournaments. The number of bronze and silver badge entries was nearly 1,000, while 24 dodgeball teams took part in the tournament and 425 entries were made in the track and field contests.

The afternoon was given over to track and field events. In these the children were carefully classified as to weight, and competed in their several classes in 50, 70, 100 and 220-yard dashes, relays and walks and various field events.

NEARLY 100 LOST IN COLLISION

Two American Women Among the Missing in Disaster

OFF ISLAND OF USHANT

Boats From Freighter Rescue 29 Passengers And More Than 200 Of The Crew—Many Leaped Or Were Thrown Into Sea.

Brest, France.—Nearly 100 persons perished when the Peninsular and Oriental Line steamer Egypt sank off the island of Ushant after a collision with the French freight steamer Seine. The Egypt sailed from London for Bombay Friday with 44 passengers and a crew of 290. A roll-call on board the Seine after the disaster showed that at least 15 of the passengers and 80 of the crew of the Egypt were missing.

Two American women, Mrs. M. L. Sibley and Miss V. M. Boyer, are among the missing. Their home addresses are not known to the company, R. F. Bevan, another American, was saved.

The collision occurred during a dense fog within 22 miles of the Armen lighthouse. The dinner gong was about to be sounded on board the Egypt. Many of the passengers and most of the crew were on deck. The shock threw several persons into the sea; others jumped and a number went down with the ship, which sank in 20 minutes. The Egypt was rammed amidship on the port side.

The Seine, badly damaged, reached Brest Sunday with 29 rescued passengers, more than 200 of the crew and the bodies of 20 dead. The captain of the Egypt is among the saved.

When the collision occurred there was a rolling sea. Some of those rescued chattering that the Indian sailors on board the Egypt took the lifeboats immediately after the vessels crashed, so that a large number of the passengers and crew had to shift for themselves.

Those who jumped into the sea and who could swim scrambled about for bits of wreckage to which they might cling. Many of these were rescued. They floated about in the fog after the Egypt went down, calling for help. The sound of their voices directed members of the crew of the Seine in small boats who were patrolling the sea, picking up both living and dead.

In some instances the rescuing crews came upon persons clinging to bits of debris who let go and sank just as aid for them was at hand. The small boats on numerous occasions sought vainly in the fog to locate persons living cries of distress through the fog. Among the known missing are the doctor and chief engineer of the Egypt.

The Egypt was a vessel of 8,000 tons. The Seine was bound for Havre when the disaster occurred.

Captain Le Barzic of the Seine, in describing the disaster, said:

"I was at my post on the upper bridge Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, 15 miles from Armentou. The sea was calm with a slight swell. The fog was very dense. I was listening for foghorns and proceeding at the slow speed of five knots.

"In less time than it takes to tell a great steamer emerged from the fog. It struck my ship and tore away the forward works and moved on at great speed. I immediately ordered our engines reversed.

"I saw nothing further. But then I began to hear cries of horror that told me of a catastrophe. I went in search of the stricken vessel in the fog and darkness. I found her in 20 minutes.

"She lay on her port side, ready to turn over. Water was pouring into a long, deep tear in her side plates. Cries and walls of despair were to be heard coming from the steamer. Passengers were seen running about on the decks as the steamer was about to go under.

"I saw a man throw himself into the sea with two little children in his arms. The ship wrecked people in the sea clung to floating debris. I had all my lifeboats lowered. It was particularly perilous work, for we were on the main path of vessels going from the open sea to the English Channel. I stayed at the scene of the wreck until 20 minutes after 11 o'clock Saturday night."

It was said late Sunday night that there might be more survivors of the disaster, since the steamer Cap Iacon was nine miles away at the time of the collision and hurried to the spot and may have picked up some of those in the water who were missed by the small boats of the Seine.

It was also learned that the Seine brought in four bodies and that the tug Valiente and Canonier landed 22.

ARMY-NAVY BILL PASSED BY SENATE

House Measure Rushed Through Upper Chamber

NOW GOES TO CONFERENCE

Equalization Is Its Goal—Compensation To Be Computed On Length Of Service And Rank.

Washington.—The Senate passed after only brief debate the House bill fixing a new basis of pay for officers and enlisted personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey and the Public Health Service. Two amendments were added and the measure now goes to conference with the House for adjustment of the differences.

Provisions of the bill are effective July 1, upon which date the present wartime basis of pay and allowances automatically expires and which would have been supplanted by the 1908 schedules had not action been taken on the revision bill.

Chairman Wadsworth of the special committee in charge of the bill declared it was written on an entirely new plan which he asserted was the first effort to put the pay of the services on a scientific basis. Mr. Wadsworth claimed that the measure would save the Government a total of nearly $16,000,000 in 1923, as compared to the present rates of pay, but it will cost approximately $1,000,000 more than the 1908 basis, computed on the present strength of the services affected.

In writing the bill, Mr. Wadsworth said the joint commission which conducted an extended inquiry into the subject, sought to equalize and adjust the rates of pay so that the compensation of officers and men alike would be computed on a combination of length of service and rank. The chairman said it guarded against what he termed the "stagnation" in promotion so that an officer or man automatically will receive increases in salary after given periods of years, while at the same time, according to the Senator's explanation, the Government is protected against "the evils of too rapid promotion" and the consequent rapid increases in base pay.

The old schedules of allowance for quarters, heat and light are done away with and a single allowance covering all and adjustable to meet changing living costs was substituted so that, the Senator said the personnel of the service "can live as Americans ought to live, modestly yet with self-respect and free from worry about getting into debt."

Cognizance is taken of the man with dependents and he is accorded more than the unattached officer or man with a view to providing "a modest competence" for all.

Senator Wadsworth explained that while the pay of some men would be cut others will receive increases, and he believed that on the whole "the result will be one that will encourage men to make the services a career with a knowledge that the future holds prospects worth while for them." The Senator added he felt certain, from the information given the joint commission during its study, that the morale of the military areas would be greatly improved.

100 BABY CHICKS FOR HARDING.

Day-Old Biddies Being Sent To Washington By Parcel Post.

Washington.—Acting Postmaster-General Bartlett received word from Postmaster French Crow, of Marion, Ohio, that 100 day-old chickens were on their way via parcel post to Washington for presentation to President Harding.

Mr. Bartlett said the chicks would be sent to the White House immediately upon their arrival from the President's home town, and that they probably would be permitted to roost about the White House grounds along with "Laddie Boy."

DRY AGENTS BATTLE BAND.

Six Believed Shot In Clash Near El Paso.

El Paso, Tex.—Six members of an alleged liquor-smugglers' band are believed to have been wounded in a clash with 16 Federal prohibition agents, armed with automatic rifles, who surprised the band as they were endeavoring to ford the Rio Grande River near here. More than 100 shots were fired before the smugglers were dispersed and escaped.

UNITED STATES WARNS EUROPE

Sovietism Must Go As First
Step to Revival

PARLEY ON WRONG BASES

Economic Should Have Preceded Political Inquiry—No Loans To Government Denying Recognized Form Of Security.

Washington.—An elaborated statement of the American viewpoint as to the expert discussion of Russian economic problems at The Hague, carried by the State Department, formed the basis of Ambassador Childs' conference with Senator Schaner and Premier Lloyd George in Genoa. The communication, however, merely made more positive, if possible, the conviction of the Washington Government that Russia must rid herself of Sovietism as the first essential step toward economic restoration.

It was made plain that while the United States does not desire to impede in any way an inquiry by international experts as to what is the matter in Russia, and is prepared to join in any plan purely for the purpose of making such an inquiry, Washington officials are certain that result would be only to show that chief economic barrier to Russian restoration is Sovietism. Until the doctrines of government, which are woven through the Russian memorandum of May 11, have been overturned and Russia is governed under the same economic theories, whatever the form of her government, that prevail throughout the rest of the world, she cannot, in the American view, expect again to set up trade and commerce relationships with the world at large.

Obviously it was pointed out that the United States Government will not consider any question of a loan to a Government based on principles that avowedly would deny any recognized form of security for the loan. It is useless for the Russian delegation at Genoa or anyone else to believe that even recognition in a diplomatic way of the Soviet Government would lead to such action, it was said. And if public funds are not to be available for such a loan American private capital would be still less willing to venture into Russia, it was pointed out.

At the same time the Washington Government was said to believe that an economic diagnosis of Russia's affairs by an international group of experts, including German and Russian specialists in commercial matters, railroads, industry or other similar questions possibly might be in order to form a basis for international conversations as to Russia on which all were agreed as to the facts.

The outstanding fact thus to be developed, however, in the American viewpoint, will be that Sovietism itself is the stone wall that blocks the road from Russia's return to the family of nations.

The point that blocked American participation in the Genoa Conference and again stood in the way of American acceptance of the invitation to The Hague, it has now been explained fully to the conferees in Genoa was that the whole proceeding began with negotiations of a political character, involving an implied at least, forecast that the Soviet Government might be recognized by other Powers. These negotiations preceded an exhaustive economic inquiry, whereas the American view is that they should have been preceded by the inquiry.

Not only has the American viewpoint been recommended to Genoa through Ambassador Childs in amplified form, but it is now known that diplomatic representatives of the Powers here have taken a hand in the matter and forwarded very full expositions of the situation in Washington after conference with Secretary Hughes.

Because of the nature of these communications there would be little surprise in informed diplomatic circles in Washington if the basis of the experts meeting at The Hague were completely revised before it is approved by the plenary session of the Genoa Conference.

It is learned here that the degree of confusion existing in Genoa regarding the attitude of America was much greater than had been thought possible and the action taken by the subcommittee of the Conference relative to The Hague meeting, taken in connection with the messages received here from negotiations in Genoa are regarded by officials as clearly exhibiting such a misunderstanding that when the truth is made known, some modification of that action will be indicated.

LESSON FOR MAY 28.

JEREMIAH SPEAKS BOLDLY FOR GOD.

LESSON TEXT.—Jer. 26.
GOLDEN TEXT.—Amend your ways and your doings, and obey the voice of the Lord.—Jer. 26:13.

REFERENCE MATERIAL.—II Sam. 23:1-4; I Kings 21:17-24; Jer. 7:1-15; Amos 6:1-6.

PRIMARY TOPIC.—The Story of a Brave Prophet.

JUNIOR TOPIC.—A Brave Prophet's Message.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC.—Jeremiah Speaks Boldly for God.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC.—When and How Should Wrong Be Rebuked?

1. Jeremiah's Solemn Warning to Judah (vv. 1-7).

The Lord commanded him to stand in a conspicuous place in the temple and proclaim the judgment which was about to fall upon them because of their sins. The object was to provoke them to repentance (v. 3). If they would not repent, God would make the temple as Shiloh (v. 6). Just as Shiloh had been the dwelling place of the Lord and now fallen into decay and abandoned, so will it be with the temple. Jeremiah was sent to speak the words the Lord had told him and not to diminish a word. The minister of God must utter unreservedly and faithfully all that God commands him to speak; neither intimidation nor flattery should turn him aside. The reason is that God has sent him.

II. Cause of Arrest (v. 8).

It was for faithfully speaking all that the Lord had commanded. The one who speaks boldly what God commands will be opposed. The time-server and self-seeker will not stand for such a ministry.

2. The Charge (vv. 8, 9). It was a capital crime. They said, "Thou shalt surely die." His guilt according to their charge was twofold: (1) Preaching to speak for God; (2) Speaking against the temple and the city.

According to their charge he was guilty of blasphemy and sacrilege. The one who prophesied without God's command was to be punished by death (Deut. 18:20). Blasphemy was also punished by death (Lev. 24:16). Both Jesus and Stephen were accused of blasphemy.

3. The Princes Sit in Judgment (vv. 10, 11). When the excitement reached the ears of the princes they came to judge of the merits of the case. Matters of state were not entirely in the hands of the priests and elders, but were partly controlled by members of the royal family.

III. Jeremiah's Defense (vv. 12-15). Threats of death did not deter him from preaching, but only made him repeat his message with clearness and tenderness.

1. Reiterates His Divine Commission (v. 12). He had nothing to deny, but to repeat what he had said. He plainly told them that in opposing him they were opposing God, for he was God's messenger.

2. His Exhortation (v. 13). He urged them to amend their ways and obey God, and God would not bring upon them judgment. Their threats did not cause him to suppress or soften his message.

3. He Gave Himself Up (v. 14). He did not resist the powers of government (Rom. 13:1). Knowing that he was sent of God he was content to trust God for deliverance. He did not fear what man could do unto him.

4. Warnings of Fatal Consequence (v. 15). He frankly told them that God had sent him and if they killed him they would be guilty of defying God. Resistance to God's prophet would be resistance to God. Woe would not only fall upon them, but the nation and city would suffer.

IV. Jeremiah Saved (v. 16-24). He was acquitted. God is able to raise up friends and advocates from the ranks of those who oppose us. All hearts are in God's hands.

1. Judgment of the Princes (v. 16). They pronounced him not guilty, as he had spoken in the name of the Lord. Jeremiah's words convinced them that he was speaking the truth.

2. Speech of the Elders (vv. 17-23). As the princes probably represented the king, so the elders represented the people.

The elders pled for Jeremiah and adduced several cases in illustration: (1) Micah (vv. 18, 19). Micah had prophesied against Jerusalem, but the king Hezekiah instead of putting him to death, repented and thus turned aside the punishment which was impending. (2) Urijah (v. 20-23). Urijah prophesied against the city and land and thus incurred the wrath of Jehoiakim, who brought him back from Egypt whence he had fled and slew him.

Though all this was done, judgment was not thus thwarted. Killing God's prophets does not prevent God's judgment, but intensifies it. In the case of Hezekiah God's judgments were turned aside through heeding the words of the prophet, and in the case of Jehoiakim judgment fell upon the nation because of refusal and maltreatment of the prophet.

3. Rescued by Ahikam (v. 24). Ahikam must have been a man of influence such as to be able to interfere at such a time.

Must Bear Cross Joyfully.

The pictures of our Lord on the cross, the earliest representations, were not like the later ones; they were of a victorious figure in the prime of life, with no nails through His hands and feet, with an upright head, and a look of joyful self-sacrifice. And that is what we must aim at: we must bear the cross joyfully; "take up" the cross—it maketh all the difference—lying down under it is one thing, taking it up is another. Take it up bravely, joyfully, cheerfully, and you will find the comparatively easy to bear.

FIRST BIT:—"The Bad Samaritan," a slice of satire snipped from slum and social crookdom of New York. The story of a thief who got in wrong through good intentions. It's a Thomas McManus story from the popular magazine.

SECOND BIT:—"The Man Who Heard Everything," a comedy-drama true to life. A Smart Set gem by Walter Trumbull.

THIRD BIT:—"Hop." You surely read this yarn by Hugh Wiley in the Saturday Evening Post. From San Francisco's Chinatown the characters come—strong, real-life people in a story of a Chink who wanted a son. Lon Chaney gives an unforgettable portrayal in this.

FOURTH BIT:—"The Strange Adventure," and it certainly is one. Marshall Neilan wrote it himself to top off a delightful entertainment with a dandy surprise.

SPECIALIZE ON CHINCH BUGS

Particular Reason Why Farmers Should Act to Protect the Bobwhite Quail From Hunters.

Every shot fired this season at the bobwhites that are wintering in your fields is a shot at your pocketbook, says Farm and Ranch. Quails destroy millions of hibernating bugs that would otherwise wake in the spring to fall hungrily upon the product of field and garden.

"While you fight the chinch bug, redouble your efforts to increase bobwhite quails," says A. C. Burill of the Missouri College of Agriculture. "They are said to eat from 500 to 1,000 chinch bugs at a meal, and their stomachs crave another meal every two hours. At least, this is the usual rate of digestion in most insect-eating birds. Quails are the only wild birds which specialize on chinch bugs in the winter season."

To protect the bobwhite the most effective plan is for several farmers co-operatively to publish a notice in the county papers forbidding hunters to shoot quails on their premises. This has been done successfully in several Missouri communities. Many county papers are running such notices properly drawn up by a lawyer and kept standing in the paper throughout the hunting season. In such cases the publishers will add the name of any farmer in the county and keep it there for, say, 50 cents for the season.

Protect the quails; they will fight your bug battles for you—winter and summer.—Our Dumb Animals.

OPPORTUNITY WAS TOO GOOD

How Justice Story Got a Laugh at the Expense of Two Highly Distinguished Americans.

President John Quincy Adams was one of those uncomfortable persons who are up at work by some ungodly hour of the morning, and he was just a bit vain about it—that is, as vain as a good Puritan ever allowed himself to get. But still everybody knew that the President got up at five and worked straight through to eleven. He was paying a visit to Harvard college one time when Justice Story of the Supreme court was delivering a series of lectures to the newly organized law school, and President Willard of Harvard, another early riser, took him over to hear the justice.

Now, Story was a notorious bon vivant; he got up late and in other ways acted like a civilized person. He began his lecture with the President of the United States seated at his right and the president of Harvard at his left. It was a drowsy afternoon along in May. Pretty soon he heard a titter from the audience and, looking out of the corner of his eye, what did he see but the President of the United States sound asleep. Then he looked over to the other side. Sure enough, Willard had also succumbed and was nodding away.

With a twinkle in his eye Story turned to the boys and remarked: "Gentlemen, behold the ghastly results of intemperate rising!"

"Army" Tests for Collegians.

That the results of regular academic tests do not clash with the results of psychological tests, but accord with them, is shown by comparison of the grades made by Penn state college students in both kinds of examinations. For the last two years freshmen have been given the army, Thurstone and Binet-Simon tests and these results compared later with their academic ratings. Invariably those students who made low averages in the psychological tests were low in their college work. Of 67 students dismissed on account of poor scholarship last year the average for the army "alpha" test was 118, while the general average of the students is 131. Of the three types of psychological tests tried the results of the army test have proved to be the best indication of the grade of work a student will do in college.

BILL'S SECRET

By DOROTHY LUCE

© 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

When Bill and Marjorie became engaged, they agreed, with true lovers' confidence, that they would have no secrets from each other. This was easy so far as Marjorie was concerned, but poor, bashful Bill, thinking of his desk and the incriminating evidence it concealed, felt quite uncomfortable.

However, he was too blissfully happy to stop at any promise on such an occasion as this. He had captured the one girl—that was all that mattered.

Bill's mother, justifiably pleased with her son's choice, invited Marjorie to spend a week in town with them. This suited his sister Dora. It meant a chance to inspect Marjorie's pretty dresses at close range and perhaps copy some of the ideas; besides, there would be matinees, parties and the companionship of a girl of her own age. Her mother would be especially lenient, she knew.

"How does it feel to be engaged?" she asked Marjorie when they were alone, talking rather too intimately of their personal affairs, as young girls have a way of doing.

And Marjorie, responding to Dora's eager questions, confided, among other things, "And we're to have no secrets from each other."

"Oh, then," exclaimed Dora joyfully, "you know what's in Bill's desk, and he won't let any of us open it."

"No," said Marjorie slowly, just a germ of doubt beginning to trouble her, "but," she continued, brightening, "I'll ask him tonight. I know he'll tell me."

But Bill would not tell her. "Darn that kid," he muttered. "She's forever prying into someone's affairs."

Marjorie coaxed at first, but Bill was obdurate, with a stubbornness that silenced her. But it hurt, nevertheless, and the hurt finally grew out of all proportion to the cause. In fact, Marjorie herself never realized how near she came to breaking the engagement during the days that followed.

Alone together, they both maintained a sullen aloofness. Bill was in despair.

He had left her for the night and was about to open the desk that had caused so much trouble in his young life, when he suddenly thought, "And she'll be going home after tomorrow." He gave the desk a vicious kick and, flinging the key across the room, he dropped his head into his arms and did what very little boys do sometimes when their punishment seems too hard to bear.

Tears, like laughter, must end some time, however, but it was a dejected young man who left Bill's room the next morning.

Perhaps that was why he forgot all about the key. Dora found it when she went to make up his bed, and joyfully called to Marjorie.

"Shall I open it?" she giggled. "It is immaterial to me," Marjorie answered with a coolness that made Dora look up sharply and gave her an inkling of the true state of affairs.

It was this, perhaps, that decided her for with a quick turn she unlocked the desk and rolled back the cover. The first thing that caught her eye was some pamphlets piled neatly at the left. She picked one up, looked it over with a puzzled frown, then fairly screamed with laughter.

"Oh, dear, oh, dear!" she rocked back and forth, unable to control her mirth. "Just listen, Marjorie. Let me read you these titles—'How to Win Her,' by John Denton Gray, professor of psychology at Michigan university. 'When and How to Propose,' 'How to Hold Your Wife's Affection,' 'The Successful Marriage.'"

"Oh, dear, oh, dear! This is too funny! Won't I tense him! Just wait."

Marjorie was conscious of a great relief and also of a surge of tenderness, almost mother-like in its understanding.

"You must never tell anyone of this," she warned Dora firmly, as the girl looked the desk and placed the key where she had found it. And Dora never did.

Bill wondered at the sudden change in Marjorie, but took his good luck without questioning. He wondered still more at the mischievous twinkle in her eye when, a little later, he said impulsively, "Just the same, Marjorie, I think if one has an understanding of psychology, he can get anything he wants."

CHANGE OF LIFE WOMAN'S TRIAL

Proof That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is of Great Help at This Period

Metropolis, Illinois.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it is all it claims to be and has benefited me wonderfully. I had been sick for eight months with a trouble which confined me to my bed and was only able to be up part of the time, when I was advised by a friend, Mrs. Smith, to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. I was so much benefited by the use of these medicines that I was able to be up and about in two weeks. I was at the Change of Life when I began taking the medicines and I passed over that time without any trouble. Now I am hale and hearty, do all my housework, washing, ironing, scrubbing, and cooking, all there is to do about a house, and can walk two or three miles without getting too tired. I know of several of my neighbors who have been helped by your medicines."—Mrs. EMMA CULVER, 705 E. 7th St., Metropolis, Illinois.

Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Nervousness, irritability, heat flashes, headache and dizziness, are relieved by this splendid medicine.

He Was Two of a Kind.

The marine was six feet five inches in height, and the quartermaster sergeant at Parris Island was a bit worried for fear he would be unable to find a uniform to fit him.

"You sure are a whopping big marine," he said at last. "I'll bet your father and mother were giants."

"Nope," said the husky. "Father was a little guy, only five feet four, and mother only came up to father's shoulder."

"That's odd—very odd!" commented the Q. M. How do you account for your huge size?"

"Well, surge," explained the husky, "just between you and me I think I'm twins."—The Leatherneck.

Avoiding Extremes.

"Do you admire skirts so short as to justify the term 'flapper'?"

"No," replied Miss Cayenne, "yet I don't want them so long as to fret the street. There should be a happy medium between the flapper skirt and the flapper skirt."

SUITS FOR SUMMER'S NEEDS; HATS FOR BRIDAL CORTEGE

STREET clothes, or "tailor-mades," have become so diversified in style that they must be classified as two-piece suits, three-piece suits, cape suits, coat-frocks, one-piece dresses, and no one knows what next. Each of these divisions has its own story, but that of the two-piece suit commands most attention; none of the others has the same wide-spread following.

The story of the two-piece tailor-made is long and interesting. It begins with plain utility suits for street or country or travel, and ends when the momentous question of headwear for her attendants comes up. They all know that the success of a beautiful pageant depends upon its crowning glory, and each maid prays for a becoming hat—one that will do all that a hat can do for fair faces. The genius of milliners glows in the creation of lovely things for great occasions that call for the picturesque and leave their fancy unhindered. They revel in airy materials, graceful shapes, beautiful colors and make the most of such opportunities.

SUMMER SUITS WIDELY VARIED

with formal suits, that draw style inspiration from many sources, and so their independent way wherever they will. An example of each of these is shown here, and that of the utility suit at the left is typical of nearly all such suits, while that of the costume suit at the right speaks for itself alone. Tweeds and homespuns in the spring styles have not eclipsed the twills, tricotines, coverts and serges that are always with us, but they have managed to occupy a good part of the horizon. They were introduced early, in many new, spring-time colors, and they made an instant success. They are made with plain skirts and long, smartly tailored coats, without adornment, other than a few buttons or occasional braid binding or a little, simple stitching. The suit illustrated is in tan tweed and explains why every woman wants one.

The summery suit at the right, with loose, hip-length coat and wide sleeves, is evidently a Chinese inspiration, with embroidery of silk in a motif that is repeated on the straight blouse, which is made exactly in the group of hats shown here, maids will find cause for rejoicing. They reveal the fine hand of the artist who knows how to take advantage of the mode and manipulate it to suit the occasion, and to insure becomingness. They are a flattering lot and include the beloved lace hat and a brown malines model which fashion smiles upon. When this year's bridesmaid's hat is not in a pale color or white, it is because it is running after one of two new favorites—beige and wood brown. The pretty model at the lower right in the picture is a triumph of brown and silver in which brown malines veils a soft brim crown and silver lace trim, and brown grapes droop from a chon of silver lace.

The white hat at the right with facing of chiffon makes a pretty background for various flower trimmings set on the brim. It is shown with a collar of silver-edged ribbon and a wreath of little fruits and flowers. Small round beads set around the crown repeat whatever color is shown for the collar and facing. Bead and ribbon trimmings of a different sort provide the only color on the hat with actly for the suit in a vivid, contrasting color. It tells little of rivals in its own class, but entices us to investigate for ourselves among suits that will repay and charm us.

In the matter of becomingness the widely varied styles in formal suits are a great advantage and every woman may look for a type that seems as if made especially for her. If she doesn't find it among the numerous two-piece models she will run across it somewhere in the collections of other "tailors." Every woman should possess a plain, utility suit and the next most useful article in her wardrobe is a dressier suit.

The hearts of the bride, her maids and milliners are all set a-flutter brim of lilies-of-the-valley posed over a transparent underbrim. Hair braid, silver tinsel, and georgette make the hat at the upper right, with the soft crown and floppy brim dear to the hearts of bridesmaids. Grapes in silver and a color dangle from the brim. Organdy appeals to the designer of bridesmaid's hats and is used to make large flowers that are posed on the brims of lace or other transparent hats, and silver ribbon is impressively effective with them.

Three-Piece Costume.

Unusually smart three-piece costumes, in rust, gray, or navy, belted and sometimes buttoned to the top of a high collar, show brilliant blouses. Often for daytime, simple serge or crepe de chine frocks are trimmed with gay embroideries or vivid galloons. Skirts may have slit panel effects, showing a fabled underdress, or they may have groups of plaits. Black has not been dethroned, but in nearly every case it is made "cheerful" by the addition of some vivid color.

The Fashionable Homespun.

Homespuns are much seen in the shops, by the yard and in ready-made suits, and both of hand-made and mill-loom weaves. The suits and one-piece dresses in this material are of plain make, with bindings and some slight garniture in the way of wool or silk embroideries, and with or without collar and cuffs of another material. A deep blanket stitch finishes some of the edges, and designs in cross-stitch of contrasting colors are effectively used.

Headgear of Increased Dimensions Holds Favor.

Large Shapes Are Irregular in Outline—Transparent Mushroom Brim Is Exceedingly Good.

The people most vitally interested in hats, that is, those who design, make and sell them, saw months ago the handwriting on the wall which indicated that hats would increase in their dimensions, observes a fashion authority in the New York Tribune.

The "why and wherefore of fashions are always interesting. The tweed suit, far fetched as it may appear, had a great deal to do with bringing about the vogue for larger hats. It is a costume for which the public went in too strenuously. Women became so enthusiastic about the tweed suit that it became almost a uniform.

These suits required small, plain hats. Of course, everybody became satiated with the tweed suit, and consequently with the type of hat that was worn with it. The feminine mind ever has demanded change.

The present reaction calls for more feminine dress and the picturesque hat. Hence we have the hat of medium size with drooping brim and those quite as large as the Gainsborough of old. We have, too, the poke bonnets affected by young girls.

Even the suit hat has taken on softer lines and a coquettishly downy brim. We still see many number of off-the-face shapes, but among the exclusive models this type may be said to be passing. It is no longer a style feature.

Crowns of hats, which may be said to be of more severe types, are done shaped, but they have little body and are of softer appearance than those used heretofore.

Large shapes are irregular in outline. In every way they give the appearance of softer lines. Many of them have fluttering flanges of transparent materials. The transparent mushroom brim is exceedingly good. Frequently a soft crown of straw may have such a brim of black lace. In many hats of this sort the crown is in a bright color such as periwinkle blue or in the muddy pink tone so much seen in the recent French importations.

Grass Linen Comes Back.

Grass linen is a material that was considered "elegant" by fashionable half a century ago. It is being shown in natural color with embroidered dots in all the prevailing colors. This is a delightfully cool fabric, so will probably become popular as the season advances. White swiss with colored dots is another offering that will be much seen when the warm days arrive.

FROCKS FOR THE CHILDREN

Bloomer Outfits Eclipse Other Types of Dresses or Gowns for the Youngsters.

The popularity of the bloomer frock for small children, ranging from two to six-year sizes, rather eclipses all other types of dresses or gowns for these particular ages.

An array of new cotton numbers has been developed in a distinctly popular grade of merchandise in altogether useful styles. Domestic chambray, gingham, challis and pongee form the fabric choice.

For the most part, the preferred style shows the little overgarment developed upon the simplest lines of a smock or peasant apron, divided in some instances the full length of the sides, up to the armpits, with a little tie girle. Frequently also the use of two fabrics is like a dress, especially where checked ginghams and plain chambrays are selected. An example of this was done with china blue and white checked gingham for the upper section, ruffled in solid blue chambray, matching the little panties.

WOOLENS FOR SPRING WEAR

Paris Exhibits Warm Fabrics at Openings for the Next Two Seasons' Modes.

Emphasis is being put on the use of woollen materials for spring, according to a Paris correspondent. This would seem to be a contradiction that Paris should exhibit such interest in warm woollens at the opening of a spring and summer season, but it is a fact. One of the most interesting features is the woolen dress with its own little woolen cape to match; not a bad idea for spring, but yet to be tested from a standpoint of general popularity.

Rodier materials were very well represented at all the openings and, as this house specializes in the woollens, naturally, a big selection has been made from his line.

The well known Kasha materials are shown in a variety of weights and patterns. These materials are woven with a mixture of goat's wool, which gives them the soft, so-called

THE LINGERIE FROCK

Milady's wardrobe is not complete without at least one lingerie frock, but when it is of lace, made over a foundation of chiffon, with clusters of flowers, there is little left to be desired.

CANE SWAGGER WITH TWEED

New Ornamented Sticks Equipped to Carry Powder and Lip Sticks and Other Necessaries.

Along with the tweed suit you may carry a cane this season.

These are new canes with ornamented heads upon them. And the heads open in a secret and miraculous way, divulging the secret that they carry depths in which powder and lipstick, money and handkerchief can be stowed away.

Some of the canes are made of enameled wood and can be had exactly to match the color of the suit you are wearing. Others are made of neatly twisted leather that carries on into the cane's head and forms a strap that can be slipped over the arm, as one is accustomed to doing with one's umbrella.

The canes are about 36 inches in length, and those who are selling them have to report that women are buying them with a great deal of zeal.

Well, if you have a tweed suit, why not do the whole thing in a well rounded out way?

Strap Slippers.

Even the boudoir mule has been influenced by fashion's frenzy for in-step straps. New boudoir mules are very smart affairs of patent leather with narrow, pointed toe and French heels. Thin rhinestone buckles flash on the toes. The mule has a toe portion only, the tall heel being attached to the sole of the upper without any fabric above the sole, but a strap of ribbon stirred over elastic goes over the instep and helps to keep the mule snugly on the foot. One can even run up and down stairs in these strap mules without danger of falling and breaking one's neck, and a more graceful step is possible than in the ordinary slippers.

Applique.

Applique is being used much for trimming on gingham dresses shown for morning wear. For this, scraps of colored cotton fabric can be utilized.

The use of rickrack braid is noted often, and presents the white touch that is so often liked, even on the colored morning dress. The edges of the apron are finished with rickrack. Rickrack upon oxblood chambray was fetching, especially when it was inset in the hem like a target line.

Several chambrays in solid colors were touched with a contrasting color, as in the instance of an old blue one, which had old rose pippings accenting the raglan inset sleeves. Patch motif trimmings appear repeatedly, done in multi-colored chambray or checked ginghams.

The employment of challis in small patterns suitable to the character of the little frocks is both novel and in good order. They are developed in the smock idea, but with less of the apron handling. Knickers complete them also.

Spanish Shawls.

Heavily embroidered Spanish shawls in vivid color of all white are thrown over the shoulders for evening. An Italian lace evening wrap on cape lines is very full and has a small chin-chilla collar.

camel's hair effect. Thus one finds in the new lines the Kasha serge, Kasha Drap, Kasha Quindrie, Kashastryko and Kasha-Vella, the latter a velours de laine, which is looked forward to as a big winter item, it being slightly heavier than any of the others mentioned.

Birds on Hats.

Many of the smartest of the small hats arriving from Paris are trimmed with a single bird—the whole bird is used, from bill to tail feather.

MORE GOOD THINGS

A most appetizing salad and one very appropriate for picnic occasions is:

Herring and Potato Salad.—Take one cupful of herring cut in dice, three cupfuls of cooked diced potatoes, one teaspoonful of onion juice, two tablespoonfuls of minced green peppers, four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar, a dash of paprika and a few grains of salt. Make a French dressing of oil and vinegar and let the fish and potato stand in it for an hour. Then combine the fish, potato and pile the mixture upon the platter, surrounded with shredded cabbage mixed with a salad dressing. Sprinkle with chopped green peppers and garnish with whole herring.

Turban of Smoked Salmon.—Take one and one-fourth cupfuls of minced smoked salmon, three-fourths of a cupful of soft bread crumbs, four tablespoonfuls of butter, pepper, two eggs, one tablespoonful of minced parsley and a few drops of onion juice. Soak the salmon to remove the excess of salt, then mince fine. Cook the crumbs and milk together to a smooth paste, add butter, parsley and a few drops of onion juice and turn over the fish. Beat the egg yolks, add to the mixture and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Turn into a ring mold, surround by boiling water and bake until firm, about twenty-five minutes. Unfold and fill the center with well-seasoned string beans and serve with a cream or egg sauce.

Fish Batter Cakes.—Take one-half cupful of shredded codfish, one cupful of pastry flour, two-thirds of a cupful of water, two egg yolks, one-half tablespoonful of melted butter and two egg whites. Freshen the fish. Put the flour into a bowl, add the water, gradually beating well, then the codfish. Beat the yolks, add, then add the stiffly beaten whites. Add the melted butter and drop by tablespoonfuls into hot fat. Have the fat hot enough to brown a cube of bread in sixty seconds.

"The best portion of a good man's life—his little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness."

SOMETHING GOOD TO EAT

A tasty dish, if well cooked, is broiled or pan-broiled codfish. Cut it in thin slices, and if to be pan-broiled, add a little butter; cook well on both sides, spread generously with butter, season with salt and pepper, and serve hot. If broiled, cover with butter as it is placed on the hot platter.

Brown Fricassee of Sheep's Tongues.—Take four sheep's tongues, wash and cover with boiling water, then simmer for two hours. Cool and remove the skin, cut in halves lengthwise, sprinkle with salt and pepper and put away in a cold place until the next day. Boil the tongues in flour, fry in butter with a little onion until a rich brown. Add flour to the pan, after removing the meat (with some of the stock in which the tongue was cooked) to prepare the gravy; season well with salt, pepper and a little lemon juice. Serve with boiled rice, all piping hot.

Oatmeal Date Cakes.—Take one cupful of sugar, two-thirds of a cupful of shortening, two eggs, one-half cupful of sour milk, one cupful of chopped dates, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and soda, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of lemon rind, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves, one cupful of walnut meats, two cupfuls of rolled oats and two and one-half cupfuls of flour. Mix and drop by teaspoonfuls on a buttered sheet. If the rolled oats are browned slightly in the oven, then ground, the cakes will be more tasty and wholesome.

Fruit and Nut Filling for Cake.—Take one cupful of raisins and one-half cupful of nuts chopped and mixed, one-half cupful of shredded coconut, and one egg white. Mix well and add to the egg white. Spread over the cake a layer of jelly, then put on the filling. Frost and decorate with halves of walnuts.

Pineapple Delight.—Take one small can of pineapple and one-half pound of marshmallows; soak the marshmallows in the pineapple juice until soft. Just before serving add one-half pint of whipped cream and the pineapple cut in bits. Chill and serve.

Money Angel Cake.—Sift one and one-half cupfuls of flour four times, add one teaspoonful of cream of tartar and sift again. Beat the whites of eleven eggs until stiff, add one and one-half cupfuls of honey, beat lightly, add flour and beat until it is put into the pan. Bake in a moderate oven.

"I began taking Tanlac first about four years ago when I was in a very bad state of health and had been run down for several years. I was always taking laxatives, too, but I believe they did me more harm than good. Tanlac made me feel like a brand new man in a very short time and I have never had a return of any of my old troubles. The reason of this I am firmly convinced is that I always have Tanlac handy and take a few doses every time I feel a bit under the weather."

GOOD HIGHWAYS

FEDERAL-AID HIGHWAY WORK

Texas Leads With 1,116.4 Miles Completed, and Minnesota Ranks a Close Second.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Measuring the network of federal-aid highways spread over the country during the past five and one-half years, the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture, places their total length, January 1 last, at 28,741.6 miles, and their cost at approximately $500,000,000. The figures represent 12,607 miles of completed roads over which traffic is flowing today and 15,834 miles of roads under construction and on that date estimated to be, as a whole, 70 per cent complete.

In mileage of completed federal-aid roads, Texas leads with a total of 1,116.4 miles. In addition, there were under construction in Texas on January 1 a total of 1,381.9 miles of federal-aid highways whose estimated total cost was nearly $22,000,000. Minnesota ranked second, with 1,066.6 miles, in the amount of completed federal-aid highways, the cost of the system being slightly over $10,000,000. Of that sum the federal government paid $3,878,063. In Minnesota there were under construction the first of the year 791.2 miles of federal-aid highways, whose estimated cost was placed at $10,055,757. Other states with comparatively large mileages of completed federal-aid highways on January 1 were:

Illinois, 722.9 miles, costing $24,098,958, of which $11,221,464 was paid by the federal government; Nebraska, 682.7 miles, costing $3,627,707, of which the federal government paid $1,735,763; Wisconsin, 500.6 miles, costing $6,702,100; Arkansas, 438.2 miles, costing $5,148,080; Georgia, 433.4 miles, costing $11,017,390; Iowa, 422.4 miles, costing $7,069,981; North Carolina, 419.7 miles, costing $5,641,733; Idaho, 407.1 miles, costing $6,472,552; and Washington, 354.9 miles, costing $8,081,285.

DAIRY

BIG COWS GIVE MOST PROFIT

Records Show That Large Animals Are Biggest Producers of Milk and Butterfat.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Figures collected from various cow-testing associations throughout the country, and compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture, tend to confirm the previous conclusions of the department that within the breeds, so far as they were represented by these animals, which were mostly grades, the large cows are the biggest producers of dairy products and are also the most profitable. The evidence seems to point to the fact that in the individual farmer's herd it will be found that on the average the larger cows are more profitable than the smaller ones, although there are some indications that this may not hold true in the case of herds of native cattle containing much beef blood.

The cows whose records have been used for the department have been sorted out so that only mature animals were used for these comparisons, thus eliminating any differences that might have been caused by the immaturity of some cows.

In one group for which figures have been prepared there were 109 cows classified as small, 201 as medium, and 120 as large. The small cows averaged 243 pounds of butterfat a year and made an income over the cost of feed of $77.39. Those of medium size made 289 pounds of butterfat and an income over feed cost of $88.91. The large cows produced 345 pounds of butterfat and a return above feed cost of $105.74.

In another group there were 461 small cows, 483 classed as medium, and 926 large. Those in the first classification made 240 pounds of butterfat on an average and an income over cost of feed of $80.11. The mediums made 278 pounds of butterfat and $106.00 over feed cost. The large ones produced 290 pounds of butterfat and an income over feed cost of $108.29. The tables were based mostly on figures for the years 1916 to 1919, inclusive, which accounts for the high average income over cost of feed.

CARING FOR SPRING CALVES

Young Animals Should Be Quartered in Clean Shed or Lot and Given Proper Feed.

Dairy calves should be kept in a clean shed or lot and fed regularly, according to A. C. Baer, professor of dairy husbandry at Oklahoma A. and M. college. He suggests the following feeding schedule:

First week—Feed three times a day of whole milk.

Second week—Feed three times a day but substitute one-third skim milk.

Fourth week—Feed two or three times a day; one-half skim milk. Regulate the amount of milk to the size and vigor of the calf.

"After the fourth or fifth week all skim milk can be fed and a little grain, ground oats, corn, barley, and a little bran," Baer says. "Let them eat some good hay, as much as they can eat."

"Calves can be kept on pasture, but should receive some grain and hay in addition. To prevent scours, all buckets and cans must be kept clean. The shed or lot should also be cleaned regularly."

ECONOMICAL FEED FOR COWS

Quantity of Grain Required by Animal Depends on Her Size and Milk Capacity.

Silage, fodder, shredded stover or sudan and millet hay may be depended upon for supplying carbohydrate roughage. The quantity of grain the cow requires depends upon her size and capacity as a milk producer. The most economical feeding results when cows are fed as individuals. It isn't always possible to do this on the busy farm; but sufficient attention may be given each animal to see that she receives the right proportion of feed for maintaining her milk flow.

FALL FRESHENING IN FAVOR

Cow Will Produce 10 to 15 Per Cent More Milk and at Time When Prices Are High.

The fall-freshened cow produces 10 to 15 per cent more milk than the spring-freshened cow, according to the dairy department of the North Dakota Agricultural college, while the large production of the fall-freshened cow comes at a time when dairy products are highest in price.

Feed and Breed. In the dairy business feed is as important as breed. Poor cows well fed will make more money than good cows half starved.

Plan to Keep Cows Clean. The cows should have clean bedding of straw and the manure should be cleaned out every morning.

Beginning of Good Herd. A good sire is the beginning of a good herd; a bad one is the end of any herd.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach, when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this: It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

HAD HIGH SENSE OF HONOR

Mark Twain Punctilious to a Degree, in Order to Satisfy His "Presbyterian Conscience."

Mark Twain, it is well known, labored in his older years to repay the debts incurred by his publisher; but probably a great many persons, basing their opinions on Twain's own jests, supposed him to be rather happy-go-lucky in smaller affairs. But he was not, shows Gamaliel Bradford in his sketch of Twain in "American Portraits."

The most obvious instance of his rectitude, says Mr. Bradford, are in regard to money. In spite of his dreams and speculative vagaries, he was punctiliously scrupulous in financial relations, his strictness culminating in the vast effort of patience and self-denial necessary to pay off the debt of honor which fell upon him in his later years. But the niceness of his conscience was not limited to broad obligations of this kind.

"Mine was a trained Presbyterian conscience," Twain says, "and knew but the one duty—to hunt and harry its slave upon all pretexts and all occasions. I don't wish even to seem to do anything which can invite suspicion," he said, as to a matter so trivial as taking advantage in a game.

Tough.

Two negroes were lying behind a packing case on the docks at Brest taking the labor out of the alleged labor battalion. Said one boastfully: "Boy, Ah comes from a tough breed. My ole man done cut his nails wif a ax an' brush his teeth wif a file."

"Huh, ain't so tough. Mah ole man am a plumber, an' twice a week he done shave hisself wif a blow torch."

Golden Guinea's Hatched.

Grace's father keeps a flock of fine guineas on his Bartholomew county farm, but Grace, a pupil in Columbus high school, was ready to turn over all the blue ribbons for guinea raising to Silas Marner. She made the acquaintance of "The Weaver of Raveloe" in her English class and she read with wonder the story of his golden guineas, for all of her father's guineas were of a dull gray color. Then test time came and Grace, describing the miser's joy with his gold pieces, wrote bravely: "That morning Silas was happy for he had hatched a new brood of golden guineas to add to his flock."

Remarkable Indeed.

"You see that stout old chap in the corner?" asked Jones.

"Yes. What about him?" replied Smith.

"He's a wonderful acrobat."

"Go on! He looks like a stock broker."

"So he is."

"But I thought you said he was an acrobat."

"He's both. I asked him yesterday whether he was busy, and he said: 'My boy, I just hang on from day to day, keeping my nose above water by the skin of my teeth.'"

When Hungry Little Muscles Say, "Please Help Me"

DID you ever stop to think who it really is that's talking, when childish voices raise a clamor, "Mother, I'm hungry?"

It's really muscles and bones and nerves and cells worn in the stress and strain of play—that are calling for rebuilding material.

What kind of an answer? The right thing, or just anything? It makes a big difference.

Grape-Nuts, so deliciously crisp and appetizing to taste, and so quick and convenient to serve, is a splendid food for rebuilding young bodies. All the wonderful nutrient put in wheat and barley by Nature, including the vital mineral elements, is there—and Grape-Nuts digests easily, quickly and completely. Served with cream or milk, Grape-Nuts is exceptionally nourishing.

THE INCOME TAX DIVISION

Collector of Internal Revenue John W. Hering announced that ownership certificates forwarded the Income Tax Division should be executed only on the revised forms which were placed at the disposal of the public recently.

"Banks, collecting agents, debtor corporations and withholding agents should immediately inspect their supplies of the ownership certificates bearing form numbers 1000, 1001, 1001A, 1058 and 1059 to ascertain that they bear the words "Revised Jan., 1922" directly beneath the form number". Collector Hering advised. Forms marked in any other manner should not be distributed hereafter. In case a sufficient supply of the forms is not being carried on hand to meet the anticipated demand, a request upon the Collector should be made. Collector Hering also stated that copies of the Treasury Decision explaining the provisions of this ruling would be distributed to taxpayers requesting them.

"Banks and collecting agents, debtor corporations and withholding agents shall refuse to accept the old forms in connection with income due after June 1, 1922 when received from continental United States, and with respect to income due after July 1, 1922 when received from abroad", it was stated in regard to acceptance of the certificates in the future. It is necessary to caution every individual and agent concerned with the collection of these slips in order to avoid the many inconveniences which may arise through failure to observe this requirement.

Lumbago

This is a rheumatism of the muscles of the back. It comes on suddenly and is quite painful. Every movement aggravates the disease. Go to bed, keep quiet and have Chamberlain's Liniment applied and a quick recovery may be expected. Mrs. F. J. Dann, Brockport, N. Y., writes: "I can honestly say that Chamberlain's Liniment cured me of lumbago a year ago last summer. When I began using it, I was flat on my back in bed and could not turn to the left or right. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment in the house and this was applied to my back. It promptly drove away the pains and aches".
